In the department of Chemical Engineering, since last two years the Nature Club activity has been started. The soul motive, behind the formation of this club was to make student explore the serene beauty of konkan region, to enjoy natural beauty and to come closer to the environment.

Under Nature Club activity in the month of July 2011, a trip was organised by faculty coordinators of nature club to HEDAVI & VELNESHWAR (near Guhagar) which is 51 km from Chiplun. On Saturday, 30th July 2011 at around 8.30 am, we left the college premises with 24 students. The bus arrangement for the trip was done Samir Palkar (T. E. Chem Engg.).

We reached our first destination i.e. to HEDAVI temple at 10.00 am. The temple was situated at a certain height from the ground. This temple is one of the famous Ganesh temple in konkan region. From the temple we can have a broad view of the surrounding location. Coupled below are some of the pictures of Hedavi temple and its surrounding.

At 11.15 am, we left Hedavi temple and started for Velneshwar. We reached Velneshwar at 12.00 pm. Initially we went to velneshwar temple, took darshan and then went for refreshment to a hotel located near velneshwar beach. We all enjoyed the scenic beauty of the beach and spent some time there. Following are the clicks taken at velneshwar.

Finally from velneshwar beach, we directly came back to chiplun. We took our dinner at hotel Highway and came back to college campus, from where students dispersed to their respective hostels.

The feedback of students was taken to make any improvements in nature club activity and also their suggestions were taken for the trip to be organised henceforth.
